What is a Children and Family Centre?

Children and Family Centres offer a range of services including: information, advice and guidance on a range of subjects which are intended to enhance the health and well-being of families.

Centres may vary. Some are larger, purpose built Centres with Internet access, play areas, training rooms and early years provision. Others are located within schools or community centres, with slightly less accommodation. Alternatively, rural projects deliver services via a 'mobile Children and Family Centre' or 'information bus', which travels around to communities taking services to where they are needed.

Children and Family Centre Services comprise (services may vary from centre to centre):

- Child and family health services, including antenatal and postnatal services and speech and language support
- Play and Learn activities
- Family support and parental outreach services
- Links with preschool settings and schools
- Family Information Service
- Support for children with special needs
- Effective links with Job Centre Plus and local training providers to support parents/carers who wish to consider training or employment
- Volunteering opportunities
- Toy Library and Sensory Toy Library
- Oral Health supplies

Children and Family Centres staff work with partner agencies across the statutory, voluntary and private sector to provide universal services for families with children who are aged 0 – 11 years.
